

Do you know an unsung hero who has left a lasting legacy in your community?

We're inviting all Victorians to nominate someone who has made a significant contribution to be considered for a new place name, particularly individuals from under-represented groups including women, First Peoples and multicultural communities.

Anyone who has left a lasting legacy can be nominated. For example, the person may be known for community and volunteer work, healthcare, science, architecture and building, sport, arts, public or military service.

Scan the QR code to find out more or visit engage.vic.gov.au/name-a-place